The Distributive Education Club of America (DECA) has qualified and will be competing in Nationals. DECA is a marketing club that is geared towards students who are interested in furthering their business education. Ten members of the THS honors marketing program attended a competition on Tuesday March 9th at the Aqua Turf Club in Southington. Five students who qualified for Nationals will be attending in Louisville, Kentucky on April 24-27, 2010.

The five students going to Nationals are competing in a variety of events including Principles of Business Management and Administration, Principles of Finance, and Principles of Hospitality and Tourism. Erica Ozolins says "I'm really excited, it was overwhelming at first because we've never been before and we didn't know what to expect." She also explains how grateful she is for her advisor's Mr. Manuel. Along with Erica Ozolins, Umang Gangwar, Kushboo Dhingra, Kevin Meeson, and Jen Salvey will be competing at Nationals as well.

Kevin Meeson, first place in Principles of finance says "I'm doing my best to prepare for the competition; I'm slightly nervous but can't wait." Congratulations to all competitors and best of luck to those going to Nationals.
