Model United Nations is a club that is focused on the issues and policies pertaining to the United Nations. The members research, debate, and resolve conflicts that affect current society.

The Trumbull High School branch of Model United Nations was founded in 2003 by John Sakakini. Since then it has grown significantly and developed into a strong organization. Trumbull High MUN offers many activities and avenues for its members to express themselves.

Mock Conferences are held on a regular basis. Mock Conferences are a Forum in which the students assume the role of a delegate to the United Nations. They represent their country's views on the chosen topic. Topics range from NATO to the environment, from nuclear weapons to genocide. The topics are announced beforehand for the members to have time to research their chosen country's point of view.

Model UN also opens doors to many different cultural experiences. To celebrate the diversity of our club, different members host international nights. These nights usually focus on a culture outside that of the United States. In the past we have had an Indian Night, Arabic Night, and Brazilian Night. All of the events were extremely fun and provided a look into the traditions of different cultures.

Along with the Mock Conferences and the international nights is the annual trip to the United Nations Headquarters in New York City. Trumbull High School Model United Nations makes an annual pilgrimage every spring to the organization that is the foundation of our club.

Members of the Model United Nations club participated in a conference held at Fairfield University, where they competed against other neighboring schools. Members also competed in World Affairs Forum, a team game testing students' knowledge of international affairs, geography, history, cultures, flags, current events, prominent newsmakers, international organizations and more.

We encourage everyone to join our meetings, held in B-5. Please check the announcements for meeting dates! We hope to see you there!
